Dear Valued Customer,

As you know Creative Salmon Company grows Pacific salmon according to strict standards. Among other things these standards include the use of high quality feed ingredients in the formulation of our salmon diets. One of these ingredients is organically certified Canadian wheat.

Unfortunately Prairie wheat production is down this year. Statistics Canada reports that it is has been depressed by as much as 23%, mainly due to reduced harvest areas and lower yields. With Canadian wheat production down, organically certified wheat has been extremely difficult to source in recent weeks.

As a result Creative Salmon Company has had to substitute organically certified wheat with conventional wheat in recent formulations of our salmon diets. Fortunately the shortage was short-lived and we have resumed using certified wheat once again. We regret any inconvenience this may have caused, but we are confident that the high quality of our salmon will not be compromised by this temporary interruption.

Our goal remains to provide you with a high quality product, while leaving behind the smallest environment footprint possible.

If you have any questions please contact me by phone 250 725 2884 or by e-mail at spencer.evans@creativesalmon.com

Kind regards

Spencer Evans
